Butters

Vegetable butter is obtained by blending the nutritive natural fatty fractions of a vegetable oil. Depending on the butter, the fractions come directly from either the oil, hydrogenated oil or the unsaponifiable fraction. Vegetable butters are solid at room temperature. The percentage of the unsaponifiable fraction of a vegetable oil is usually very low. It requires a large quantity of processed oil to yield a significant quantity of butter.

Vegetable butters are becoming more widely incorporated into cosmetics and skin care products as they are rich in beneficial nutrients. Butters can contribute to the viscosity and stability of emulsions, and they give rigidity to stick products and balms.

Natural Sourcing supplies a large selection of hard to find, superior quality conventional vegetable butters. Additionally, we are able to provide almost any oil in butter form. We also offer a growing selection of organic butters.
